OldSkool 22 April 2008, 09:32 Edit: Not an endorsement, just a response to an age old question on here. Klippich 22 April 2008, 14:48 Not a big fan of Photoshop, but I know a lot of graphic designers that swear by it. I know a little, and it's not difficult, but not as useful as Gimp. You can create a lot more complicated graphic designs, but you have to be a bit more advanced. -Ab Brick House 23 April 2008, 04:27 I'm kind of conflicted on this one. To be honest, I don't really know much about the subject, but I don't really like photoshop either. With that said, it's still my bestest friend. It's too easy to master, you can create any kind of graphic design you want, and that's why there are so many tutorials for people. It's also my bestest friend when it comes to web design. I know that not everyone likes it, but if you do, I'd love to hear your opinion on how photoshop is your best friend and favourite program. C.a.c.n.o.n. 23 April 2008, 11:52 Um.... can't tell if it's a poll, a group of people's opinion, or just a question. But it is quite fun to see how these things turn out. HeatOfOblivion 24 April 2008, 11:11 my opinion is Gimp, i dont know why but i find it alot easier to use than photoshop and with the add ons its as good as photoshop. also i know with photoshop you can create a saveable template but with gimp its in

You know the matchmaker between your skills as a hunter and the way animals evolve, and you know the elusiveness of a hapless deer being able to figure out the best possible escape route. It's why you're out here in the middle of the night in the first place. You're also aware of the fact that all of the hunt will be filmed for a local TV show. Taping the show has been a hobby of yours for over a decade now, but you're also trying to bring it to the next level of popularity. You've filmed with multiple cameramen and sound men for years, but this is the first time you're really set up with a crew of its own, all by your own accord. You're about to shoot a profile of a hunter, of course. "Man, I'm excited," you say with a wide grin. "To be honest, I was kind of nervous at first." However, the aforementioned anxieties are soon replaced by a sense of pride after meeting the cameraman. "Oh, I like this guy," you tell yourself, laughing. "He's an excellent choice." With that comes a few moments of nerves. "I really have no idea what I'm doing out here." "I've never been on a crew before," you tell the cameraman. "I'm kind of scared." "I'm equally as scared," the cameraman responds with a grin. "I'm nervous too. I'm just looking forward to tomorrow." You attempt to wipe your own smile clean away with a smile of your own. "I'm so excited," you tell yourself. And there it is. The best way to make this better. Excitement, excitement, excitement. If you can't get excited about the food you're eating, what's the point of anything in life? "I'm nervous," you respond to
