Cropping to a standard size If you want to crop to a standard size or aspect ratio that you specify, follow these steps: 1. Open the photo to crop, and then click the Crop tool, as shown in Figure13-1. Photoshop Elements crops the image to a square, as shown in the screen. (For more on the Crop tool, see Chapter 5.) 2. From the Crop window, choose a crop size and aspect ratio from the up-and-down list of choices. At this point, I chose 4 × 6 inches. FIGURE 13-1: The Crop tool appears when you click the Crop tool icon on the left side of your screen. In order to apply the crop, you need to select the edge of the photo that you want to use as the crop border, as shown in Figure 13-2. In this example

In this Photoshop tutorial, we will show you how to improve the sharpness of a photo in Photoshop. Let's go. First, let's take a look at the source. Jpeg Stack The next step will be to convert the image to a smart object. A smart object allows you to make changes to the original image without having to use layers. This is the best way to edit an image. Smart objects are best suited for RAW files. In this tutorial, we will work with JPEG files. To create a smart object, choose the smart object filter on the Filter menu. To edit the image as a smart object, click the eye symbol on the layer toolbar and choose Edit Smart Object. You will now see a smart object below the original layer. Now, let's add a Gaussian Blur filter. Image – Blur – Gaussian Blur The following steps are required to create a Gaussian Blur filter. Click the button +in the filter bar and choose Gaussian Blur. Choose the radius of the blur you want. Check the other settings in the dialog box. You can now drag the filter layer in the Layers window to select it. Now, we can drag the layer to the main layer on top. Delete the Layer Now the image looks slightly blurry. Let's add a new layer and add a Gaussian Blur filter with a smaller radius. Image – Blur – Gaussian Blur

We can now start to work on the upper layers. First, we will make the pinkish areas less pink and the blurry area less blurry.

This is done by using a Gradient Map. Gradient Map To add a gradient map, choose the Linear Gradient tool on the Layers toolbar. Select the Pink Color and move the red slider to the left to make the pink area less pink. You can play with the colors by changing the pink and red sliders on the bottom of the Gradient Map dialog. Just pick one color and move the slider to the left or right and adjust the opacity using the Opacity slider. Now the Pink is less pink, but the fuzzy area is still blurred. Let's add a layer mask on top of the pink layer and make the fuzzy area less blurred. 05a79cecff
