ARCOPAIUSZEL ARCOPAIUSZEL Intro
ARCOPAIUSZEL The Core Game Arcopayuszel - Text based Card Game - RCS Classic card games such as Texas Hold-Em and the German card game Rummy are adapted into the world of text based chatting. The small number of characters on your screen is certainly a pain in the neck when compared to playing against real players - this is why we bring you the new version of the text based card game ARCOPAIUSZEL. You play against the computer or you play real players. Rules
ARCOPAIUSZEL The rules are based on the rules of Rummy by Klaus Fetz. If you have ever played that game, you'll already be familiar with ARCOPAIUSZEL. Thus, most of the rules from the classic version are retained, but there are a few essential differences between the two games. First of all, there are only seven cards in the deck of

ARCOPAIUSZEL. The Ace, Jack, Queen, King and two other cards. The Rummy rules state that the cards are ten in the deck. The other difference is that in Rummy one can raise, reduce, stay or pass in the course of a hand and the players are assigned to five zones - dealing, play zone, deal zone and stack zone. However, ARCOPAIUSZEL is played in one-on-one, playing area and the players can raise, reduce, stay or pass during the course of a game. Players In ARCOPAIUSZEL a game is played in one-on-one, by two players. However, the game can be set up and run for more than two players in a multi-player setup, which can then be played in a tournament or league. Hand Hand in ARCOPAIUSZEL is in red. The first thing you do is see whether the dealer or you are dealing. If you are dealing, hand it to the player next to you. If the dealer is left-handed, it has to be in his left-hand. If not, you'll have to turn your left-handedness into left-handedness after you have dealt. Deal The dealer is entitled to
